DESIGNERS JULIETTE ARENT, SARAH-JANE PYKE AND DOMINIQUE BRAMMAH "This master ensuite bathroom embraces a sense of graciousness and grandeur that resonates with the scale of the house, an 1800s terrace. It celebrates the overall experience of bathing in a room rich in materiality, with painted walls, timber floors and overly generous floor space. The deliberately strong and masculine language of steel framing is balanced by the romance of floor-to-ceiling curtains in soft white linen." What luxury item did you choose for this bathroom regardless of budget? "The custom-made steel-framed showerscreen with ribbed glass that encloses the toilet and shower as cubicles. This allows the ensuite to open to the rest of the bedroom without compromising privacy."

FUTURE FORWARD

It's robust and contemporary with an industrial edge, but traditional touches add to this kitchen's style cred.

DESIGNERS JULIETTE ARENT, SARAH-JANE PYKE AND DOMINIQUE BRAMMAH "We honoured the scale of the space and the sense of history inherent in this home by celebrating a sense of nostalgia. Small routed details in the cabinet doors, the blackened bronze handles, wired glass of the pantry, and angled rangehood box surround, are all a contemporary nod to traditional kitchen detailing. We used a restrained palette of midnight blue and figured grey stone against the strong architectural backdrop of polished concrete, white-painted brick, black steel doors and timber trusses." What luxury items did you choose? "The steel-framed pantry celebrates the ultimately functional nature of this kitchen. Hand-painted joinery doors, which bring a texture and sense of depth. The detail of the island bench stone with its three-layer stepped bullnose edge. Nothing is flimsy; everything is solid, robust and weighty."
